Fox News and the Associated Press have ditched their “Leading the News” tagline, two people with direct knowledge of the matter told TheWrap. The two spoke on condition of anonymity to share details about the change, which comes in the wake of news President Donald Trump has given Fox News more airtime than any other news network. TheFoxNews.com team also dropped its tagline and featured the headline “Breaking News Now” Monday after the first results of the 2016 presidential election were called. Also Read: Twitter Strings Trump and Media Outrage After 'Huge' Win (Video) Both Fox News and the AP are owned by 21st Century Fox. Despite the change in headlines, Fox News' top story remained: Trump calls for “military option” for Syria. The Associated Press put together a list of newsmakers Monday morning headlined with “Many Trump supporters attacked” — the first time the leading headline was not about Trump. Related: Media Matters Names Glenn Beck the 'Most-Read' Trump Commentator Earlier, Trump appeared on Fox News' “Fox & Friends,” where he defended his decision to call out media outlets for not “giving fair coverage” to his campaign. “They’re just saying, ‘You didn’t win so you must be a loser.’” Trump said. “And that’s what the headline is. The headline is ‘He didn’t win.’” Trump’s latest contention is that, while Clinton was winning the popular vote, by a small margin, Fox News’ Martha MacCallum told her Trump was “ahead” in the race. The story MacCallum was referring to is an interview she did Oct. 31, in which she said Trump was ahead in the popular vote. Also Read: 5 Times Trump Criticized Media in the Last Week of Campaign “Martha MacCallum disputed claims by Hillary Clinton and her allies that Donald Trump won the popular vote because fewer people cast ballots for her,” MacCallum said after a phone call with Clinton. “More than 4 million voters did not choose Mrs. Clinton.” Trump later that week called the popular vote a “total joke.” “This

Vijay Mallya Sought to Shield His Son From Criminal Proceeds Vijay Mallya, Kingfisher’s former chief, managed to get his son, Siddhartha, released from prison in the UK even though he could not produce the required surety. The London Court of Appeal have ruled that he can leave the UK despite the serious non-payment of debts to banks in India. But his son is still in custody in a UK prison. The 61-year-old liquor tycoon who was formerly based in the UK is currently in a Kolkata prison because of unpaid debt. The decision by the two-judge panel was taken on the grounds that Mallya was “currently ineligible for bail”. Mallya’s lawyer has argued that the “entire case for granting bail was discretionary” and pointed out that his client’s residence in Britain was “a clear breach of the conditions of his bail”. The court also observed that the bail conditions in place would “preclude any possibility of Mallya attempting to flee or interfere with witnesses in the course of the trial.” Mallya was arrested last year on accusations of fraud and money laundering and charged with 157 counts of fraud. He is also accused of defrauding banks of around Rs 9,000 crores. Mallya’s London-based lawyers had claimed that the businessman could not travel to India due to health reasons, and Mallya had become stranded in the UK. After his release on bail, the businessman was debriefed by CBI to find an alternative country to shelter him after the UK courts refused to grant him bail. Sources said the Indian government has requested another country to provide a home to Mallya in return for a five-year financial guarantee. The Indian government allegedly had sent a letter to the Sri Lankan government to provide the same. As it stands, he remains locked up in a Kolkata prison. ? The Indian Express is now on Telegram.
